CSA's Young Professionals group is an action-oriented service organization geared toward individuals in their 20s, 30s and 40s who want to address the issues of hunger, poverty and homelessness in our community through volunteering, fundraising and serving as community ambassadors. CSA's vision is for them to be a networking group that will help in building the framework for creating a high-impact, customized social responsibility program to help address the massive poverty problem in our community.

Young Professionals group leader Nicole Schreiber says "I'm happy to be working with CSA and getting involved in the community. I'm looking forward to bringing more people into our group with this event."

CSA Executive Director Tom Myers says "This event is a great way to get younger people more involved in their community while enjoying a fun, social activity. The CSA Young Professionals group represents the future leadership of our organization, as well as future leaders in our community. Their networks also help us reach out to new donors to help our programs continue."
